

Director's Report

Tuesday, December 8, 2020

Programs:

- Book Club: Ten people discussed A Primate's Memoir with Liesl Schernthanner leading the discussion. We will discuss The River Why by David James Duncan on January 27 at 5:30 and Kindred for the Wood River Winter Read February 23 at 5:30.
- The first Take and Make kit is ready to go. Can do Zoom meeting to make them either the end of this week or the following week sometime.
- Virtual Christmas Reading of The Best Christmas Pageant Ever Saturday, December 12
- Need to set a date for wrap up of our Reading Challenge, and find a new challenge for next year.
- Cookies and Cocoa: Ken Murray is sending cookies and cocoa for the kids. The teachers will read the stories this year.

I've done some online webinars and watched a few recordings for professional development, and how to fill in the statistical report this year. Wednesday, December 9 I will attend a Zoom meeting with the Idaho Commission for Libraries on IDEA, the Idaho Digital E-book Alliance for e-book and e-audio service, including Sora, an Overdrive app for students.

Library Facebook page is back in action.

The Idaho Commission for Libraries debuted a new adult services newsletter that will be helpful in developing some new services for these strange times. The first one had a lot of self-care ideas. I'm planning to send some kind of newsletter out before the new year with some of the resources and ideas from this.
